

PROTECTING YOURSELF AND OTHERS FROM CORONAVIRUS

Important information for all people arriving in Tasmania

NSW Health has identified a cluster of COVID-19 cases currently linked to the Crossroads Hotel in Casula, in South Western Sydney.

Tasmanian authorities have been alerted to a cluster of COVID-19 cases linked to the Crossroads Hotel in Casula, in South Western Sydney.

Anyone who was at this venue between 3 July and 10 July may have been exposed to COVID-19.

If you attended the Crossroads Hotel in Casula between 3 July and 10 July, you should call the Tasmanian Public Health Hotline on 1800 671 738 for further advice.

If you think this applies to you, it is important to call the Hotline even if you will be entering a period of quarantine upon arrival in Tasmania.

